

Cuddle Coats

Helping Wild Animals Go Home

Cuddle Coats accepts donated fur coats and accessories and ships them to wildlife rehabilitation centers to provide comfort to injured or orphaned wildlife.

During the rehabilitation process of animals such as raccoons, squirrels, rabbits and chipmunks, contact with humans must be kept to a minimum. Fur acts as a surrogate, helping establish a nurturing and soothing environment for animals to heal.

"I'm so glad that my mom's old fur coat
can be used to do some good."

ANIMAL RIGHTS COALITION
because animals matter

Photo credit: Wombat Ridge Animal Shelter (Snuggle Coats)

www.cuddlecoats.com

Make a Fur Donation at Our Mail or Drop-Off Location

Animal Rights Coalition
317 West 48th Street
Minneapolis, MN 55419

Include your mailing address so we can send you a tax receipt. And please consider including a tax-deductible donation of $10 or $20 to help cover shipping costs to wildlife rehabs.

Volunteers Needed

We need help prepping furs for shipment. Email info@animalrightscoalition.com.

Contact

cuddlecoats.com

info@animalrightscoalition.com

 CuddleCoats

 @cuddlecoats

“We had a little raccoon...and he just cried and cried. Towels wouldn't do it, but the Cuddle Coats calmed him down.”

Wildlife Rehabilitation Clinic,
High Ridge, Missouri

Cuddle Coats is a nonprofit program of the Animal Rights Coalition.